How HomeServe is Navigating the Coronavirus (COVID-19)

Since the start of the pandemic, HomeServe has continued to adjust our operations so we can continue providing the excellent customer service you expect. No matter how long you've been a customer, you undoubtedly know that at HomeServe we put our customers at the heart of everything we do. From the time you call us to report a problem in your home, through the deployment of one of our employees or contractor technicians and the completion of your job, our priority has been and will continue to be safety. Your safety. The safety of our technicians in the field. And the safety of our office employees who continue working largely in their homes.

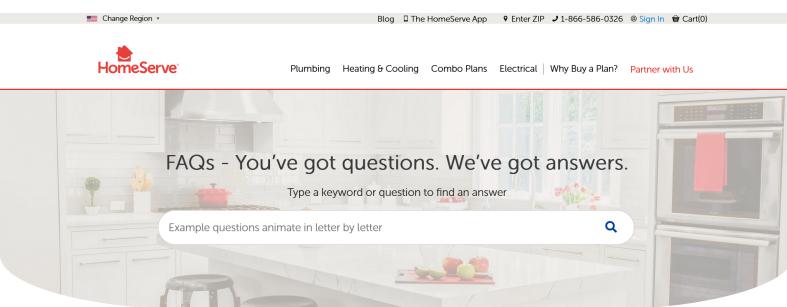

We will work to service your repair and installation needs as expeditiously as we always do, but we must comply with evolving federal, state and local guidelines. So, it's important that you understand delays may be inevitable. But like we said, our customers are at the heart of everything we do, so we're committed to keeping you informed every step of the way.

Finally, we can't say it enough: your safety and that of our team is paramount to all of us.

We continue to employ measures at HomeServe to prevent the spread of this disease. These include:

- Cleaning all our offices thoroughly and frequently.
- ~~Ensuring all team members of the need to practice social distancing~~

Partner with us

As a HomeServe partner, you can offer your customers a suite of low-cost plans that cover the cost of repairs with access to a qualified, vetted contractor network. With one phone call your customers are on the path to a fast, easy solution to their repair problem – all without deductibles. Offering these important products to your customers helps strengthen your relationship – and that translates into improved customer satisfaction and community relations.

How it works

We take care of every aspect of the program. Our experienced team prepares custom-tailored communications that speak directly to your customers. Once you approve the communications, we print and distribute them to your customer base at no cost to you. We manage and route emergency service calls through our 24/7/365 repair hotline, and dispatch jobs to local, licensed and insured technicians to make repairs.

Why partner with HomeServe?

- Industry Leader
- Customer Education
- Award-winning customer service
